

SOCIETY and PERSONAL ACTIVITIES of WOMEN

SOCIETY

The first dance of the season to be given by the Gamma chapter of the Theta sorority took place last evening in the Horary and Turkish rooms of the Oliver hotel. The sorority's colors of silver and cherry red were used for decorating the ball-room and 100 guests enjoyed the program of dances played by the Big Five orchestra. The committee in charge included: Miss Darlene Hoeler, chairman; Miss Margaret Heidebrand, Miss Pauline Thresh and Miss Mildred Mitchell. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gaff, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Heidebrand.

Mrs. George Taylor, 407 W. Third st., Mahawaka, entertained at a 1 o'clock luncheon Tuesday, her guests being members of her bridge club. Eight guests were seated at attractively appointed table graced with decorations of orange and black and suggestive of Halloween while cornflowers formed the centerpiece. The afternoon was spent at the bridge tables and the favors were won by Mrs. LaRue Smith and Mrs. William DeWalt. In two weeks, Mrs. Frank Knoblock, 632 Allan st., will be the hostess.

As a courtesy to her houseguest, Miss Ruth Harrington, of Providence, R. I., Miss Jeanne Crouse, 715 Park av., was hostess to a few friends Tuesday afternoon at an afternoon-bridge. Three tables of bridge were played and the favors were won by Miss Genevieve Shidder and Miss Adeline Major. A guest favor was given to the honor guest.

A paper on "The Misunderstood Child," read by Mrs. C. E. Lee, and a demonstration on making patty shells, lemon pie and fruit baskets given by Mrs. George Thurn featured a very interesting meeting of the home department of the South Bend Woman's club which was held at 3:30 o'clock in the club room. J. M. S. Hild. Preceding the program a business meeting was held during which Mrs. R. R. Stahley was elected to the office of secretary-treasurer to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Mrs. Margaret Pierce. Sixty members and guests were present. The next meeting will be held Nov. 28.

The Nature Study department of the Progress club met Tuesday afternoon at the club house with 28 members in attendance. Mrs. Otto Welter presented an interesting paper on "Winters and Valleys" and was followed by a talk given by Miss Amanda McCombs on her trip through the Indiana caves who exhibited specimens brought from the caves. The next meeting will be held Nov. 14.

Members of the Alumnae of Lake Erie college at Painesville, O., held meetings in 50 cities of the United States last evening in celebration of the campaign which is being conducted to raise one million dollars for new college buildings. The affairs last evening, which were known as reunion dinners, were attended in each city by all the resident members of the college alumnae. Mrs. Rome C. Stephenson and Mrs. Samuel Pettigill, the only South Bend members celebrated with a family dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson, 201 North Shore dr. The tasteful decoration of the table suggested the Halloween season.

Mrs. J. A. King, 5 S. Main st., entertained the members of her luncheon club Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at luncheon at the Robertson Tea room. The table was centered with a basket of autumn flowers. Following luncheon the guests spent the afternoon playing bridge at the home of the hostess, favors being won by Mrs. Clark Carson and Mrs. G. S. Brand. In two weeks the club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Walter E. Bryan, North Shore dr.

The Ancient Order of Gleaners will give an afternoon program at Gleaners hall Thursday which will be open to the public. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock and a closed meeting for members only will take place in the evening.

A Halloween Masquerade party was given Tuesday evening at the Gleaners hall. The decorations consisted of corn stalks, lighted pumpkins, lanterns and black and gold streamers. The evening's diversions were dancing and games. Miss Gladys Boyer received the favor for the most unusual costume. The afternoon was spent at the bridge tables and the favors were won by Mrs. LaRue Smith and Mrs. William DeWalt. In two weeks, Mrs. Frank Knoblock, 632 Allan st., will be the hostess.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Mildred Haupt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haupt, of Oak Park, Ill., and Carl F. Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cook, 1243 Van Buren st., this city, which took place Saturday, October 21 at Oak Park, Dr. A. Stone, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Oak Park, officiating. Miss Elizabeth Haupt, sister of the bride and Carl Wunderlich, of this city were the attendants. The bride wore a tailored traveling suit of dark brown with a hat to match and her corsage was of sunburst roses. Miss Haupt also wore a suit of tan cloth, with hat to match and her corsage was of Ophelia roses. A wedding dinner was served to 18 guests following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Cook are residing at Oak Park.

Thirty-seven members of the Olive Dunn Mission circle of the First M. E. church met Tuesday evening in the church for a 6:15 o'clock supper. Mrs. O. E. Julian was hostess for the evening. Following the supper a business session was held and officers were elected. Those appointed were: Miss Ruth Wittner, president; Miss Alvina Nitsche, vice-president; Miss Gladys Phillips, secretary and Miss Grace Hoffman, treasurer. The subject for the evening's program was an informal discussion of India and talks were given by various members followed by a piano solo by Miss Blanche Fox. The next meeting of the circle will be held the third Tuesday evening in November at the church. The hostesses will be Miss Mary Kutz, Miss Blanch Fox, Miss Ethel Milkenson, and Miss Mabel Garwood.

Edward H. Stark, 423 Harrison av., entertained the members of the Wesleyan society of the Emmanuel M. E. church Tuesday evening at his home. After the regular business session an informal program was given and later the time was spent socially. Twenty members were present.

The Chain O' Lakes Country club will entertain with a dance this evening. Dancing will begin at 8:30 o'clock and the original Tokio orchestra will play the program. The same orchestra will also play for the Halloween party Oct. 31.

The Misses Sara and Inda Gilbert and Miss Rose Gilman, entertained informally Tuesday evening with a kitchen shower at the home of the Misses Gilbert, 917 W. Colfax av., in honor of Miss Sarah Zisman whose marriage to Herman Friedman takes place next week. A typical Halloween luncheon was served to the 18 guests who were seated about the fireplace which was surrounded by lighted pumpkins and Halloween decorations. Music, dancing and games were the diversions of the evening and a favor was given to each of the guests. Miss Betty Smith of Detroit, Mich., was among the guests.

Mrs. Americus D. Lewis, 1118 Portage av., entertained with a charming luncheon at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Chain-O'-Lakes Country club. The clever decorations of the luncheon table were suggestive of the Halloween season and places were laid for Mrs. Dalton Moormaw, Mrs. A. W. Subbera, Mrs. John Boone, Mrs. Julius Gauss, Mrs. E. C. Gerber, Mrs. C. K. Kuehn, Mrs. Frederick E. Stoll, Mrs. D. K. Splitter, Mrs. John W. Toyne, Mrs. R. R. Lundy and Mrs. E. W. Peters. Following luncheon the guests spent the afternoon at the bridge tables.

Mrs. George W. Schmidt, 1039 York av., entertained the members of her bridge club at luncheon Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the College Inn of the LaSalle hotel. The table was centered with a cluster of yellow pom-pom caryanthemums. Following the luncheon the afternoon was spent playing bridge at the home of the hostess, the favors being won by Mrs. W. H. Mikesch, Mrs. J. E. Cauley and Mrs. T. A. Hyman. In two weeks Mrs. Cauley will entertain the members at luncheon at the Hotel Mahawaka.

Invitations have been received for the marriage of Miss Alma Schoenthaler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Schoenthaler of St. Louis, Mo., and Raymond C. Haas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Haas, 127 E. Marshall st., this city, which will take place Saturday evening, Oct. 23, at the Tyler Place Presbyterian church, at St. Louis.

In honor of his 75th birthday anniversary, Burr Fields was pleasantly surprised Monday evening at his home, 501 Lincoln way W. Fifteen relatives, including his children and grandchildren were present. The evening was spent with games and music and luncheon was served late in the evening.

Revelations of A Wife

THE SUGGESTION TOM CHESTER VOICED WITH FEAR.

At Lillian's admonition to go on with his story, Tom Chester turned toward her with a jerk of the shoulders—not foreign enough to be a shrug—which expressed as plainly as words could have done the realization he felt toward Allen Drake. That the older man's thinly disguised ridicule had angered him was plainly to be seen, but it was also patent that he meant to ignore both the gift and the giver.

"We went over to Riverhead," young Mr. Chester continued, "and found the chaps with the limousine had given out that they were making a map of automobile roads through this section. They had a couple of local loafers helping them—fellows of the type that will keep their mouths shut for money. But one of us had something on one of them, and after a little persuasion he came clean with everything he had, and is making regular reports to us of everything they do. I'll say they've been some busy little parties. They've spent their whole time in the car, and if there's a square inch of the most secluded wood road in this section that they haven't explored, I'll eat it. They had the loafers trail them in the smallest car they could buy, and they used it over the wood roads too narrow for the big car. If they are making a map, they'll sure have a peach when they get through!"

"You mean—"

From my father's side I saw Lillian and Allen Drake exchange swift significant glances, and at the same instant my father's hand on my shoulder tightened as if involuntarily. That the three experienced secret service officials saw something in the young soldier's story which was evidently not apparent to him I was sure.

"And if they're planning a quick get-away for somebody who's cooking up a stunt that will demand one of Allen Drake said crisply, every trace of a drawl gone from his tone.

"Exactly," Lillian acquiesced, and Tom Chester looked from one face to the other with horrified comprehension dawning in his eyes.

"You mean," he addressed Lillian, still ignoring Allen Drake, "that the man Smith—"

"The man Smith," Lillian repeated, her voice almost rasping so low was "just now he's two ideas in his half-crazed but diabolically cunning brain. One is the recovery of the secret code in the everlast case he lost here on the night he searched Katie's room. The other is his device to get even with Madge and the Dicky-bird for the way they crabbled his game up in the Catalina. He's going to try both stunts before he leaves here. And a neat little murder more or less while he is on the job would be a mere detail to the gifted Mr. Smith."

A Disconcerting Tribute.

Tom Chester had been looking intently at Lillian as she was speaking, but at her last words his horrified eyes leaped to Mrs. That he already saw me the victim of an assassin's hand was as evident as was his boyish determination to do everything in his power to protect me.

"Then—then—" he stammered, "we are wasting time, aren't we? You say Dr. Pettit is not going to tell Smith that his ankle is well until tomorrow morning. He is really a fugitive from justice. I think you said. I can go down right now and nab him if you say the word."

Lillian smiled at him sympathetically, but her negative was prompt. "That's what ought to be done, but unfortunately we cannot permit it just yet," she said. "He must be allowed to run loose for awhile, so that he will finally lead us to the biggest lair of all. And he must be given the opportunity to steal back his eyeglass case with the code inside."

"But—" Tom Chester sprang to his feet, his eyes blazing with excitement, the blood receding from his tanned cheeks. "You—you—are risking my life!"

The boyish voice rang like a clarion through the room. There was no mistaking the tense fear which was awaying him, making him forgetful of conventionality, indeed, or everything else save my safety.

It was a tribute of which any woman might be proud, and I was conscious of a secret thrill at the boy's championship, but for the most part I was distinctly uncomfortable. I could feel every pair of eyes in the room upon me—Tom Chester's frightened ones, my father's, with amazed disapproval, Lillian's amused eyes—Allen Drake's—I could imagine their sneer behind his masking eyelashes.

He that stirs poison, will taste it.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, OCT. 26.

Rather peculiar circumstances or experiences are foretold by the astral seers from this day's planetary chart. While the forces may not be read as hostile, yet they may not be entirely beneficent in their operation. There is seen some danger from slander or false report, and it would be wise to be particularly cautious in affixing the signature to any writing or agreement. Strict attention should be given to business and financial affairs.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of unusual experience, either in a business social, romantic or psychic way. They should guard against false report or slander, and pay strict attention to business. A child born on this day should have the earliest of training in the necessity for responsibility in the affairs of life, since its planetary heritage predisposes to unreasoning, sacrificing principle to expediency.

He grieves more than is necessary, who grieves before it is necessary.
